The Space Pilgrim Academy series (Years 1 -3 and Reunion) serves as a welcome continuation of the Space Pilgrim saga. Under the tutelage of the original titular protagonist, you play as and meet new characters as the consequences of her past actions begin to surface and disrupt the current state of galactic affairs.

This series appears to be a tad more ambitious than its predecessor, and leaves a few threads hanging as a precursor to a potential third sequel. While I look forward to experiencing more of the Space Pilgrim universe, the lack of self-contained conclusion does not sit well with me.. This is wonderful. I'm excited to see where this goes in the future!!. There is No End to the Hours of fun available in this simple to learn game. Each play through is it's own storyline experience.. A short, casual little game. Short but entertaining. Suprisingly more difficult than i had expected! Has potential to be a much bigger game.. I played board games with the game devs last week and promised them I would support their first Steam game and buy it. I wasn't about to back down on that promise.

The game itself is decent, though. Just read the description and you know pretty much everything there is to know about its "smartphone-inspired" gameplay. If you play games in short spells, you got nothing to lose, plus the price is difficult to beat given the content you'll be getting.

The music is also cool and worth a mention. Oh, and if you tend to get dizzy easily, you might want to think twice before playing Odium, as things tend to get fast, spinny and flashy a lot.. ever wonder what iceage Vikings woulda been like? Now you know BADASS!!!. Buy all the DLC, you won't regret it. I can't get enough of Sanctum 2, its a great game.. I cannot recommend this DLC as some cards show up blank for people who join. They don't always work.

The game is fun however when it does decide to work.. As others have noted there are defects. For example, there is an outcome where the Suez Crisis is supposed to permanently lose its effect. This is not happening. It will be a good expansion if this stuff gets fixed.

See my impressions at <https://youtu.be/qF1yiEUrDtM>. Great RTS game where you place defenses and troops to attack enemy towers. Easy to understand yet challenging.

Graphics are good, controls are accessible, gameplay is fun and complex.

I spent 2 hours playing it on the first try because i had too much fun!

Highly recommended.

* Compatible with Samsung Odyssey+ *. Enola managed at first to catch my attention with the story, but quickly I was driven away by the awful sounds, lame animations, and bad 3d modeling and lightning. The gameplay is boring and don't give the player any sense of purpose or direction. I didn't managed to find any enemy,. [EDIT] Would love to know why people find this review unhelpful.

Meh. Not what I was waiting for.

Okay, so it's actually one of those games that's terrible but fun anyways. It's the not Greg Hastings Tournament Paintball of old. It's definitely dumbed down. It's closer to Extreme Paintbrawl 4 with it's wacky locations and zero need to take cover. The AI is terrible at shooting and beyond dumb when it comes to moving around and using cover smartly. Even still the gameplay is smooth enough to be fun. If you enjoy going for a high kill count this game is entertaining.

The game is littered with microtransactions but it's so easy to level up and unlock everything in game they might as well not be there.

The graphics are absolutely abysmal. No excuse for the state of this game. No improvement from the very first Greg Hastings. The game is clearly a port of a port. The graphics engine and assets were ported from console to mobile and the full mobile game was ported directly to PC with no changes. You'd figure the 8th most played game online for the original Xbox would have spawned a franchise that gets at least slightly better with multiple sequels but no. We got one decent sequel, a crap sequel, a mobile port and a port of the mobile port. Each game worse than the last except for Maxed.

The VR is actually REALLY good suprisingly and saves this game. When games give you full locomotion rather than teleportation that usually makes me extremely sick. After a full hour of playing this game not even the slightest twinge of motion sickness. No idea how they did it but kudos. There's nothing quite like snapping out of a bunker using your actual body rather than some button.

This game IS NOT MULTIPLAYER!! Basically every match you join a lobby (no offline modes) and start a match. The actual match will be with all bots. At the end of the match it will track your kill count. Which ever real life player ends the match with the most kills wins.

This game is crap. This game is fun. For $10 I recommend it.. This has a free flash game feeling to it and you will finish it within about an hour if you keep at it long enough.

Not worth the cash is my final verdict.. definitely worth the money! controller support is flawless on my xbox one controller. Not exactly a high quality AAA title, lacks very basic settings you should now expect from any PC game, resolution settings at the very least, but sadly, nothing, so you are forced to play in a square box at some pretty poor looking models.

The game play itself is pretty solid, I assume this is very basic flight simulator stuff though, taking off and landing is very easy, it takes a lot for you to stall your plane. There is a wide selection of different planes to choose from at the start of your missions, each having their own different stats, strengths and weaknesses. I won't spoil too much, but one of the planes is so much better than any of the others so the large choice is kind of pointless once you work it out.

There is an essence of customization when you reach certain goals, you will be granted experience points to improve your character (planes). I focused on agility and luck (which increases your critical shot chance), and this turned my plane into a little nippy bomber that could avoid pretty much any rockets!

The main story took me about 8-9 hours to complete, and it was quite an enjoyable play through. There is plenty of re-playability in the arcade mode, which is where I spent most of my time.

I would recommend this game, however if you are playing this expecting a crisp AAA experience, you will be disappointed, if you go into this with the only expectation is that you are going to fly a plane and blow stuff up, you'll enjoy it.

7/10. Don't buy this cluster♥♥♥♥ it is not worth it. I even bought it for 2 euros and still got disappointed! Do not waste your money!. WATCH OUT! EARTH! I def. like this game, sometimes you dont want to think to much. I enjoy the 2D aspect of the game so far and you cannot go wrong for the price. I have only made it half way in the game and I enjoy the concept of gravitational forces when firing around a planet's body. I like the little video at the beginning and laugh everytime I hear cheering when I complete a level. I give this little game a A+++
